The army of Gen. von Linsingen thereby succeeded in capturing or dominating all the crossings over this river on the entire front. After five days of heavy fighting farther to the north our troops are pursuing the defeated enemy toward the Gnila Lipa branch of the Dniester. Since June 23 the army of Gen. von Linsingen has taken 6,470 Russians as prisoners. Northeast of Lemberg we are approaching the Bug section. Farther to the east as far as the region of Gleszanow the allied Teuton troops are progressing. They have made several thousands of Russians prisoners and have captured a number of cannon and machine guns.

State Department Hears Zapata Defeated Carranza in Fight for the Capital

Further confirmation of the defeat of Carranza was rushing troop trains from Vera Cruz to the capital; that fighting, at the hour the courier start ed, still was going on in the outskirts of Mexico and that a repetition of the "tragic ten days" which pre-ceded the overthrow of Madero, with probably added horrors, was feared. Included in the State Department's dispatch was this:

President Not to Permit His Hand to Be Forced Even if Huerta Returns.

OTHER FOREIGN PROBLEMS TO BE SETTLED FIRST

Does Not Consider Time Just Ripe for Intervention or Recognition of Any Faction,

President Wilson, it is understood today, will not permit his hand in Mexico to be forced by the action of Gen. Huerta in trying to return to Mexico for the purpose of taking part in the revolution going on there. If Gen. Huerta should succeed in complicating the Mexican situation the effect, so far as the administration is concerned, would simply be to muddy the troubled waters there and fortify the President's determination to stop the whole thing whenever he regards the time as most appropriate.

But it is pretty well known to intimate friends of the President that he does not regard the time as definitely ripe for either recognition of some Mexican faction or for intervention by this country. Except for the possibilities of trouble in Europe it is probable that the President would not delay much longer if his mind is made up that this country must interven in Mexico. He does not propose, however, and this is known on high authority, to undertake too many big affairs at one time.

One Big Thing at a Time. The President's program is pretty in brief, one big thing at a time. He will first endeavor to settle the issues between the United States and Germany. Such appropriations, he said with the complaints that American business men are turning in so rapidly as to interference with neutral shipping and prevention of importation of German and other goods to this country. The President has no reason to believe that Great Britain will wish to be unyielding in her attitude toward the shipping of the United States. On the contrary, he feels that a strong presentation of the view of this country will gain concessions that will dispose of the issues there.

of threatened troubles across the waters, Mr. Wilson is expected to turn his attention toward Mexico and put into project whatever plan he has outlined. He will act promptly, too, in putting this into execution. What it will be will depend, as he intimated in his recent statement as to Mexico, upon the status of affairs at that time. It is either a case of recognition and support of one of the factions or the cleaning up of a nasty condition by the United States alone. The choice is going to depend upon the Mexicans themselves within the next two months.

That Gen. Huerta would never obtain the approval of this administration was settled long ago. His entrance into Mexico, if he should succeed in getting there, would not mean his elevation to the presidency, but, on the other hand, wouldtend to mean straight intervention by the administration. Should Huerta's plans be patriotic enough to guarantee his own elimination from presidential aspirations and a sincere effort to put into the presidential chair a man of high class, the administration would make no objection it is hinted and might even lend lined.
